Calderwood Partners LLC

www.calderwoodpartners.com

June 6, 2015

Barbara Banks
Chief Operating Officer
Johnson, Lopez and Brooks

Re: Engagement for Commercial Due Diligence

Dear Ms. Banks:

We are writing to confirm the appointment of our firm to conduct commercial due diligence for Johnson, Lopez and Brooks, and to set down the terms that will govern the work. The engagement follows our discussions this spring and the transaction outline your office sent afterward. What follows describes the question we have been asked to answer, the way we intend to answer it, the people who will do the work, and the commercial and legal terms of the appointment. Your countersignature on the enclosed page, once returned to us, makes this letter the agreement between us and settles anything discussed before it.

The Question Before Us

You have asked us to test the commercial case for the acquisition your board is weighing. Our work addresses four questions, and no more than four. How large is the market the target serves, and in which direction is it moving. Where does the target stand within that market against the companies it competes with. How durable is its revenue, read through its customers, its contracts, and its rate of retention. And which of the assumptions in the target's business plan will bear the weight the plan puts on them. We will deliver a written report that answers those questions and states our view of the commercial risk, with the exhibits behind each finding attached to it.

Approach

We build the picture from the outside in. We size the market from published sources and from our own reference base, then narrow to the segments the target actually serves. We interview customers and channel references where access allows, because a company's account of its own standing is worth testing against the people who buy from it. We review the commercial information you and the target make available and reconcile what it says against what we hear. Where the evidence is thin we will say so rather than close the gap with an assumption, and where our view differs from the target's we will state ours plainly and show the basis for it. We do not audit the financial statements and we do not opine on valuation; those sit outside this engagement and can be arranged separately if you want them.

Who Will Do the Work

The engagement is mine to answer for, and I review the analysis and the report before either reaches you. Melissa Casey leads the market and reference research and is your point of contact for the substance of the findings. Cynthia Hart assembles the data and prepares the exhibits that carry the report. Nicole Griffin manages the information requests and keeps the record of what has been asked for and what is still outstanding, so that nothing needed from your side is lost between us. We do not change the people on your engagement without telling you first.

Fees and Payment

Our fee for the engagement is a fixed sum of $112,500, covering the work described above and the exhibits that accompany the report. We invoice monthly for the portion of the work completed in the preceding month, payable within thirty days of the invoice date. Reasonable expenses, principally travel undertaken at your request, are billed at cost against receipts. Work outside the scope set out above is not begun on assumption; if you ask for something this letter does not cover, we will quote it and wait for your written authorization before we start. Work commences on June 16, 2015, subject to your countersignature and to our receiving the target's commercial data and the introductions to the references we will need to reach.

Term and Termination

The appointment takes effect on the date of your signature below and runs until we have delivered the report and rendered our final invoice. Either of us may end it on thirty days' written notice to the other. On termination you will pay us for the work performed and the expenses incurred to the effective date, and we will hand over our work product as it then stands, with a written note of what remains open. A partial review is not a conclusion and should not be read as one.

Confidentiality

We will treat the information you and the target provide as confidential and use it only for this engagement. Access within our office is limited to the team named above and to those whose work requires it. We will not disclose your information, or the fact or subject of this engagement, to anyone outside the firm without your written consent, except where compelled by a court or regulator with jurisdiction, and in that event we will notify you first if we are permitted to. Our report is prepared for your evaluation of this transaction and is not to be used for another purpose without our written consent. These obligations survive the end of the engagement.

Limitation of Liability

Our report is addressed to Johnson, Lopez and Brooks for the purpose of assessing the transaction described, and it is not to be relied upon by any lender, co-investor, or other third party without our prior written agreement. Our total liability arising out of the engagement, whether in contract or in tort, will not exceed the fee paid to us under it, save in the case of our fraud or willful misconduct. Neither party will be liable to the other for indirect or consequential loss, including lost profit or the loss of a transaction, whether or not the possibility was made known. Our conclusions rest on the accuracy and completeness of the information furnished to us; where that information proves materially wrong, the consequences of the error are not ours to bear, though we will tell you promptly if we come to doubt what we have been given.

Governing Law

This agreement is governed by the law of the state in which our principal office sits, without regard to its conflict-of-laws provisions. Before either of us begins proceedings, we will try to settle any dispute through discussion between senior representatives of the two firms. This letter and its signature page together form the entire agreement between us on their subject, and may be amended only in writing signed by both parties.

If these terms match your understanding, please countersign both copies where indicated, retain one for your file, and return the other to this office. If any part of them does not, call me and we will resolve it before you sign. We are glad to be undertaking this work for you, and we will be ready to begin as soon as the signed letter is back with us.

Very truly yours,

Julie Ramsey
Managing Principal
Date: June 6, 2015

Barbara Banks
Chief Operating Officer, Johnson, Lopez and Brooks
Date: June 6, 2015