Re: Engagement for Zoning Variance Petition

Dear Ms. Young:

This letter confirms the engagement of Bramblewood Legal PLLC by Foley Group to prepare and pursue a petition for a zoning variance affecting the property described in the materials your office has provided. We thank you for entrusting the matter to us. Before any work goes forward under the firm's name, I like a client to see the whole of the engagement on one page: the scope, the people, the fee, and the date we begin.

Our scope is the variance petition and nothing beyond it. We will examine the deed, survey, and recorded instruments for the property; analyze the zoning provisions from which relief is sought and the standards the reviewing board applies; prepare the petition and its supporting exhibits; and appear on Foley Group's behalf at such hearings as the petition requires, through the board's decision. Work outside that scope, an appeal among other possibilities, would proceed only under a written amendment to this letter signed by both of us.

Nicholas Cox, Senior Attorney, will lead the matter and take responsibility for the record. Ashley Reese, Attorney, will prepare the zoning analysis and keep your office informed through regular status reports. Under the firm's standing access rules, the matter folder will be readable by this team and by me, and by no one else at the firm; we treat that restriction with the same seriousness we give a filing deadline.

Our fee is a fixed fee of $60,000 for the scope stated above. Filing fees, publication costs, and other third-party charges are additional and will be billed to you as incurred, with documentation. Work will commence on April 16, 2019, and we expect the petition to run its course in approximately four months.

If this letter states the engagement as you understand it, please sign below and return one executed copy to my attention. If it does not, call me before you sign; a scope is easier to fix on paper than in the middle of a hearing. We are glad to have the work.
