Mary Frank
Director of Operations
Barrera Group

Dear Ms. Frank:

This letter sets out the terms on which our firm will act for Barrera Group on the corporate positioning work we discussed, and it stands as our agreement once you have signed it. We have tried to write it plainly, so that it reads as a record of what we said to one another and not as a document to be decoded.

Please read it against that conversation. If any part of it sits differently from how you remember the discussion, say so before you sign, and we will put it right.

Scope of the Engagement

We will help Barrera Group settle on a clear and defensible account of itself for the audiences whose view of the company counts most, and give you the language to carry that account through the announcements and conversations ahead. Our task is to see that what is already true about the company is understood by the people who need to understand it, and that the account holds steady wherever it is heard.

In practice that means the core positioning and the messages that express it, the written materials that carry those messages into the world, and our counsel through the announcements that will test them over the term. It does not extend to the running of the company or to decisions that are properly yours; where our advice touches those, it stays advice.

Our method is unhurried and, we hope, familiar in feel. We begin by listening, to you and to the people inside and outside the company who already hold a view of it, and we set a small number of core messages down in writing before we build anything on top of them.

From there we prepare the materials that carry those messages, and we stay close through the moments that test them. When the ground shifts, as it will over five months, we come back to you and adjust the account with you, never around you.

The Team

Daniel Valenzuela will lead the work day to day and will be your first point of contact for anything of substance. He keeps a deliberately small book of clients so that the one in front of him has his full attention, and he is the person to bring a decision to when it needs to move.

Michelle Rose will shape the messaging and the drafts and keep the moving parts legible as they multiply. She has a careful ear for how a company already speaks, and she will see that the language we propose sounds like Barrera Group and not like us. Between them you will always know what has changed and what is still open.

I will keep a hand on the work myself, particularly on the announcements that carry the most weight, and nothing sensitive will go out under our name without my having read it. You are welcome to come to me directly at any point, though more often Daniel will be the faster route to an answer.

Fees and Payment

Our fee for the engagement is $59,000, covering the work described above through its expected close. We will invoice against that amount as the work proceeds, and our invoices are payable within thirty days of receipt.

The fee covers our people and their time. It does not cover out-of-pocket costs such as travel, print production, or third-party services, which we will agree with you before anything of consequence is incurred. If the shape of the work changes materially, we will raise the fee with you and settle it before that work begins.

Term and Termination

The engagement begins February 15, 2017 and is expected to run for about five months. We will treat it as finished when the work is genuinely done, not simply when the calendar says so.

Either of us may bring it to a close on fourteen days' written notice. If you end it, you will owe us for work properly done up to that point and for costs already committed on your behalf, and nothing more.

Confidentiality

Everything we learn about Barrera Group in the course of the work we will hold in confidence and use only for the purpose of the engagement. That obligation binds our whole team, survives the end of the engagement, and covers the fact of our involvement as much as its substance. We ask the same of you in respect of the methods and materials we share with you.

Limitation of Liability

We will do the work with the care and skill you are entitled to expect, and we stand behind it. We do not, however, control how third parties, the press and the markets among them, will finally respond, and so our liability to you for the engagement is limited to the fees paid under it, save where the law does not permit such a limit.

Governing Law

This agreement is governed by the law of the state in which our firm is established, and any dispute under it will be resolved in that state's courts. Should any single provision be found unenforceable, the rest of the letter stands unaffected.

If this reflects our understanding, please sign and return one copy and keep the other for your files. Once we have it back, Daniel Valenzuela will be in touch to arrange the first conversations. We are glad to be working with you, and it is in careful hands.
