Re: Engagement for corporate positioning services

Dear Mary:

Thank you for the time you and your colleagues have spent with us in recent weeks. We are pleased to confirm the terms on which Ashcombe Advisory Partners LLC ("Ashcombe") will advise Barrera Group (the "Company") on its corporate positioning. This letter records the approach we discussed, and if any part of it differs from your understanding, we would ask you to tell us before signing so that we can put it right.

The assignment

Our task is to help the Company describe itself clearly and consistently to the audiences on which its next stage depends: the investment community, customers, employees, and the press. Together with you, we will develop a positioning platform that the Company's leadership can adopt as its own, along with the core materials needed to put that platform to use.

Subject to the Company's review and approval at each stage, we expect the work to comprise the following:

- a review of how the Company presents itself today, drawing on its existing materials, its recent coverage, and confidential conversations with members of its leadership team;
- a positioning statement and a supporting message framework, developed with the Company and refined through successive rounds of review;
- a standard company description, together with core talking points for executives and designated spokespeople; and
- recommendations on introducing the new positioning across the Company's website, press materials, and investor communications, including the order in which those changes should be made.

Services outside this description, such as support for a specific announcement or for an unforeseen reputational matter, are not included. We would be glad to discuss any such work separately, and we will not begin it without your written agreement.

How we will work together

We will work principally through you as the Company's point of contact, and we will confirm decisions and approvals in writing as the engagement proceeds. Drafts will reach you by email with a clear note of what we need from you and by when, so that review on your side remains manageable alongside your other responsibilities.

No statement or material will be released on the Company's behalf without its express approval. The Company retains final authority over all content, and we will treat every draft as confidential until it has been approved for use.

What we will need from the Company

The quality of this work depends on access. We will ask the Company to make members of its leadership team available for interviews and reviews, to provide its existing materials and relevant background promptly, and to inform us of any development that bears on how it should describe itself.

Who will be working with you

As Managing Partner, I will have overall responsibility for the engagement and will review the positioning work at each significant stage. Daniel Valenzuela, an Advisor with the firm, will lead the work day to day and will be your principal contact for scheduling, drafts, and approvals.

Michelle Rose, a Communications Associate, will support our review of the Company's materials and coverage, and she will maintain the media and stakeholder lists on which the later stages of the work rely. Should we need to draw on other members of the firm for particular tasks, we will let you know in advance.

Fees and payment

Our fee for the services described in this letter is a fixed fee of $59,000. The fee covers the full scope set out above and will change only if we agree with you in writing to change that scope.

We will invoice the fee in installments over the course of the engagement, and each invoice is payable within thirty days of receipt. Reasonable out-of-pocket expenses, such as printing, courier, and media monitoring services, will be billed at cost and incurred only with your prior approval.

Term and termination

The engagement will commence on February 15, 2017, and we anticipate that the work described above will take approximately five months to complete. Either party may terminate the engagement at any time by written notice to the other.

If the engagement ends before the work is finished, the Company will pay a proportionate share of the fee for services performed, together with approved expenses incurred, through the date of termination. We will deliver to you all work in progress, and the provisions of this letter on confidentiality and limitation of liability will continue to apply.

Confidentiality

We will hold in confidence all non-public information the Company shares with us, use it only for the purposes of this engagement, and disclose it only to those members of our staff who require it for the work. Because the engagement may give us access to material non-public information, each member of our team is bound by the firm's policy on securities trading and disclosure. We advise other companies, some of which may operate in related fields, and we will not use the Company's confidential information in that work.

These obligations do not extend to information that is or becomes public through no fault of ours, or that we are required by law to disclose. Where the law permits, we will notify you promptly before any such disclosure is made.

Limitation of liability

The Company is responsible for the accuracy and completeness of the information it provides to us and for its decisions about what it releases publicly. We will perform our services with the care and skill customary in our profession; we cannot, however, guarantee any particular coverage, market response, or other outcome.

Our aggregate liability arising out of or relating to this engagement will not exceed the fees actually paid to us under this letter. Neither party will be liable to the other for indirect, incidental, or consequential damages.

Governing law

This letter, and any dispute arising from the engagement, is governed by the laws of the state under which Ashcombe Advisory Partners LLC is organized, without regard to that state's conflict-of-laws rules. It constitutes the entire agreement between us on the matters it addresses and may be amended only in a writing signed by both parties.

Your acceptance

We very much look forward to working with you and your colleagues. If these terms are acceptable, please sign where indicated below and return a copy to me, after which Daniel Valenzuela will contact you to arrange our first working session.

Sincerely,

Julie Hill
Managing Partner
