Re: Engagement for an investor relations program

Dear Lauren:

Thank you for the conversations that led to this letter, and for the candor with which you and your colleagues described where the company's investor communications stand today. This letter confirms the terms on which Ashcombe Advisory Partners LLC ("Ashcombe," "we," or "us") will support Castaneda, Adams and Davis (the "Company") in building and running an investor relations program. We have tried to set those terms out plainly, so that both of us can refer back to them with confidence as the work proceeds.

Scope of the engagement

Our work will concentrate on how the Company presents itself to the investment community, and on how consistently it does so from one setting to the next. Specifically, we expect to review the Company's current shareholder base and analyst coverage, conduct confidential perception interviews with a selection of investors and analysts, and work with management to develop a clear and durable investment narrative.

Building on that work, we will help the Company put in place the calendar, presentation materials, and approval practices that a lasting program requires, including support around its quarterly results. We will also advise on outreach to investors who do not currently hold the Company's shares but who, in our judgment, should come to understand its story. We will agree with you at the outset which of these elements matter most, and we will weight our time accordingly.

How we will work together

Much of our work is done by correspondence: we draft, route materials for your review, and keep a clear record of what has been approved and by whom. We will hold working sessions with your team at intervals we agree together, and we will report progress to you in writing between them.

Nothing we prepare will be released to any outside party without the Company's prior approval. The Company retains sole responsibility for the accuracy and completeness of its public statements and for compliance with applicable securities laws and any listing requirements. This engagement does not include legal advice or the preparation of regulatory filings; where those are needed, we will coordinate with your counsel.

What we will ask of the Company

To do this work well, we will need timely access to the Company's recent results materials, shareholder records, and any investor feedback it has already gathered, together with reasonable access to members of management. We will keep our requests focused, and we will route them through you unless you direct otherwise.

The Ashcombe team

Michael Morris, a Partner of the firm, will lead the engagement day to day and will be your principal point of contact. He will be supported by Laura Bradley, Senior Associate, who will manage drafts, version control, and the approval record for each item, and by Michelle Black, Communications Analyst, who will lead our research on the shareholder register, peer companies, and media and analyst coverage.

I will remain involved throughout, reviewing material before it reaches the Company and joining working sessions where that is useful. We would ask that you serve as the Company's lead contact for the engagement, so that every approval has a single and reliable route. Should a change in staffing become necessary, we will discuss it with you in advance, and we will not reassign a senior member of the team without your agreement.

Commencement and fee

We propose that our work commence on July 6, 2018, with a kickoff session for your team shortly after that date. We anticipate that the program will run for approximately nine months, and our fixed professional fee for the scope described in this letter is $47,000.

Fees and payment

We will invoice the fixed fee in installments over the term of the engagement, on a schedule we will confirm with you at kickoff, and each invoice is payable within thirty days of receipt. Reasonable out-of-pocket expenses, such as travel for investor meetings, will be billed at cost and incurred only with the Company's prior approval.

Term and termination

This engagement will continue until the work described above is complete, unless it is ended earlier by either party. Either of us may terminate the engagement on thirty days' written notice, in which case the Company will pay the portion of the fee attributable to work performed, together with approved expenses incurred, through the effective date of termination.

Confidentiality

We will hold in confidence all non-public information the Company shares with us, use it solely for the purposes of this engagement, and limit access to those members of our team who need it. We recognize that some of this information may be material and non-public, and our team will observe any trading restrictions and blackout periods the Company notifies to us. These obligations will survive the end of the engagement.

Other clients

We advise a number of companies, and from time to time some of them may operate in markets related to the Company's. We will not act for another client on a matter directly adverse to the Company while this engagement continues, and we will raise with you promptly any situation that could reasonably be seen as a conflict.

Limitation of liability

Our advice is intended to assist management, which retains responsibility for all decisions taken and public statements made by the Company. Except in the case of our gross negligence or willful misconduct, our aggregate liability arising from this engagement will not exceed the fees paid to us under this letter, and neither party will be liable to the other for indirect or consequential losses.

Governing law

This letter and any matter arising from it will be governed by the laws of the state in which Ashcombe maintains its principal office, without regard to conflict-of-laws principles. Should any disagreement arise, we would ask that it first be raised directly between you and me, so that we have the opportunity to resolve it together.

Acceptance

We are glad to be working with you and your colleagues, and we look forward to the program ahead. If this letter reflects your understanding, please sign below and return a copy to me; on receipt, Michael will be in touch to schedule the kickoff session with your team.

Sincerely,
